Radiall Receives Supplier Innovation Award from Airbus

October 21, 2015 — Radiall, a global manufacturer of leading-edge interconnect solutions, is the proud recipient of a recent award from Airbus executive committee, which recognizes Radiall for providing innovation solutions to the aerospace industry. During a ceremony held in Mobile, Alabama on October 21, Radiall was presented a Supplier Innovation Award from Airbus.

Dedicated to being a key player in the aerospace market and present on every new aircraft program, Radiall is honored to receive this prestigious award. The Supplier Innovation Award from Airbus comes as a result of the effort made by Radiall to accurately understand and proactively respond to the time, cost and weight challenges the aircraft manufacture was encountering on new aircrafts.

The long standing relationship between the two companies provided Radiall the opportunity to make the innovative Quick Install Connector a reality. The Nexus of Innovation, Radiall's new Quick Install connector, is a revolutionary and lightweight alternative to the existing EN3545. Meeting EWIS reliability and safety standards, this unique solution is incredibly easy to install and designed to reduce installation time by more than 80%.

Dedicated to providing high quality solutions which reduce the overall cost of an aircraft, Radiall is pleased to be a contributor to the Airbus legacy. "We are honored and very proud to receive this prestigious award from Airbus. We endeavor to provide solutions at the forefront of innovation and to meet the expectations of our customers in the shortest period of time. It is this total commitment that is being rewarded today ", says Dominique Buttin, Chief Operating Officer.

Radiall has also been distinguished previously by Airbus Center of Excellence Electrics as a best supplier and received a "Supplier of the Year Award" in 2008, 2010 and 2014, and an "Engineering Award" in 2012 and 2013, proving Radiall's expertise in the aerospace market.
